Sandro Sulcis leaves Avobis

After eight years at Avobis, Sandro Sulcis has decided to hand over the management of the company and leave Avobis in November 2024. The search for a successor has been initiated.

Sandro Sulcis joined Avobis from Julius Baer in 2016 and has played a key role in shaping the company in various key positions - since 2020 as Co-CEO and CEO. During his time, he has made a decisive contribution to growth, especially during the start-up phase and the challenging transformation to today's Avobis. After successfully completing the transition phase this summer, he has decided to take on a new professional challenge outside of Avobis.

Andrin Waldburger, investor and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Avobis: "Sandro Sulcis focussed on customer orientation from the very beginning and was able to achieve great and lasting success. On behalf of the entire Board of Directors and the employees, I would like to thank him warmly for his decisive contribution, his commitment and his loyalty over the years. His achievements will remain tangible beyond his time with us."

The process of finding a successor is already underway. Andrin Waldburger, Delegate of the Board of Directors, will manage the company on an interim basis until a successor is found.
